08.00-09.30 Breakfast Sessions

Repositioning India and Australia as Startup Nations (City 1&2)

The world suffered during the first waves of the COVID pandemic, and its aftermaths continue: it is necessary to reinvigorate the creativity and innovation of India and Australia post-COVID. As each nation has different regulation systems, legal frameworks and individual behaviors arising from cultural backgrounds how can they turn themselves into startup nations? What government interventions and policy frameworks are needed? What sectors should policy makers focus on?

- Diane Dixon, State Project Lead, Lot Fourteen, Australia
- Jordan Duffy, Co-founder, Buckham and Duffy, Australia

Designing for Life-time Circularity (City 3&4)

In Australia the need to design for product recycling is seen clearly; and while Indian megatowns grapple with vast rubbish volumes they learn new methods that will aid the world. Will entrepreneurs in both nations develop neat agricultural and other product circularity? What are the most urgent developments? How will their governments help?

- Nobumitsu Akai, Director, JFR Group, Japan
- Gagan Arora, Founder and President, Vertex Group, India
- Bandara Diss, Managing Director, Kandy Homes, Australia
- Berthold Karlic, Managing Partner, Venionaire Capital, Austria
- Brad Lemmon, Chief Executive Officer, Resource Co., Australia

Chaired by

- Yean Lee Chong, Head of Strategic Partnerships, Lexasure Financial Group, Singapore

Not Even a Token Woman On-Board (Hall N)

Why do women remain vastly underrepresented in leadership positions – in India they are only 18%, in Australia 33%? What mindset changes are needed in the corporate world and political arena? Is this a male issue? Can we define the unique qualities and benefits female leaders bring to the table so redefine all recruitment selection processes?

- Sandra Colhando, Co-founder, TransforME Learning & Leadership Solutions, Australia
- Yuvika Gupta, Founder, The You We Show, India
- Vaniitha Jaiin, Founder, The Perfect Pour - Wine & Spirits Consulting Firm, India

Chaired by

- Preeti Dubey, Founder, Strive High, Singapore

Reaching out to the Global Markets (Hall M)

India and Australia have very different demographics yet their governments want to develop competent manufacturing committed to grow exports. How might the nations cooperate and in which sectors will they compete? What do investors look for in each nation? Where is it easier to do business and why? How will each government support inwards investment?

- Simon Humphrys, Chief Executive Officer, New Wave Biotech, Australia
- Tally Raeburn, Director International, SA Department of Trade and Investment, Australia
- James Scuderi, Group Executive Director, GETC, Australia

09.30-10.30 Plenary: India, Australia and the World Economic Outlook (Panorama)

This plenary session was jointly developed with AIMA

The global economic growth expectations for the current year are nearly half the growth last year and the outlook offers no comfort. India and Australia are among the bright spots in a generally dismal global economic outlook. What can these nations do to protect their GDP growth from the inflation shock and consolidate their gains from the shifts in global supply chains? What can India do to insulate its economic rebound from an inflation shock?

- Yuvika Gupta, Founder, The You We Show, India
- Anton Roux, Chief Executive Officer, ADC Forum, Australia
- Nikhil Sawhney, Vice Chairman & MD, Triveni Turbine; President, AIMA, India
- Rekha Sethi, Director General, All India Management Association (AIMA), India

Chaired by

- Nicholas Johnson, Chief Executive Officer, Economists Without Borders, Australia

10.30-12.00 Dialogue Sessions

Investing in Australia (City 1&2)

The Australian government has concentrated growth on its infrastructure, education and green innovation delivering exceptional results. For instance, cleantech is driving both physical and digital growth across Indo-Pacific incorporating knowledge-intensive advances. What does the Australia's investment future offer inwards investors? How can South-Australia in particular serve as start-off hub for Indian investments?

- Sudha G. Bhushan, Co-founder, Taxpert Professionals, India

Chaired by

- Chris Wood, Executive Director, Invest SA, Australia

Developing Joint Security Accords (City 3&4)

A nation's security has for a long time been of prime importance. It is more than simply guarding borders; it requires long-distance surveillance and international agreements like the QUAD – the Quadrilateral Security Dialogue between Australia, India, Japan and the US. And there are softer issues – like social security supports and democratic freedom. What is the nature of a strong security accord? How well do they operate as a deterrent to aggressions of any form?

- Michael A. Johnson, Advisory Board Member, Black Sky Aerospace, Australia
- Richard Price, Chief Executive Officer, Defence SA, Australia
- Brajindar Mohan Singh, Member of the Board, Anant Raj Limited, India
- Jamie Wilson, Founder & Executive Chair, Cryptoloc Group, Australia

Chaired by

- John West, Executive Director, Asian Century Institute, Australia

Enhancing Trade between Australia and India (Hall N)

Negotiators have studied a Free Trade Agreement since 2007 and realized an accord in 2022: the IndAusECTA reduced most tariffs to zero. How will this change the nature of the current import/export balance? How will the perceptions of business leaders change and how will they alter their product mix to accommodate national preferences? Which side will lead the new breakthroughs?

- Deborah Biber, Chief Executive, ASEAN Chamber of Commerce, Australia
- Richard Emerson-Elliott, Assistant Secretary and Deputy Chief Negotiator India FTAs, Australia, Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, Australia
- Tim White, Director Trade, Department for Trade and Investment, Australia
- Vishal R., Chief Customer Officer, RGA Global Trade, India

Chaired by

- Jai Patel, Partner, India Business Practice, KPMG, Australia

Industry 4.0: The Potential Skills Deficit Across Indo-Pacific (Hall M)

Many of the region's developing nations may not have invested deep enough to develop the required salient digital skills. How can India and Australia fill these gaps while become the world's smart manufacturing hubs? What strategies are required to unlock productivity and secure long-term economic growth? How to approach the transformations towards Industry 4.0?

- Sachin Arolkar, Head of International Operations, Automotive Division, Mahindra, India
- SivaKumar Gunturu, Chief Executive Officer, Maple Software, India

- Sally Smith, Executive Director Planning and Land Use Services, SA Dept for Trade and Investment, Australia

Chaired by

- Xavier Prabhu, Founder and Managing Director, PRHUB, India

The Mentoring Soft-skill Abilities (Hall N)

Technical qualifications are requested by many businesses, and proposed by many governments. They sometimes forget that soft skills are needed by businesses looking to develop inwards and outwards investment projects. What are the major education hurdles to overcome? Would mentor centers help develop financial and management skills pertinent to the 'Indo-Pacific Way'?

- Parag Amin, Chief Mentor and Founding Director, iCreate, India
- Chandrakanth B. N., Founder and Chief Executive Officer, Pairee, India
- Niyati Khanna, Cofounder, Diplomathon Global, India

Adelaide: Indo-Pacific's Developing Hot Hub (City 1&2)

Adelaide, the capital of South Australia claims it is the data economy hub of all Australia: it welcomes Indian investors. It hosts HighTech hubs looking to generate new ideas and drive these to market across all business sectors. How to make joint development a meaningful aim? What help might governments give? How to better inform investors and innovators of the benefits of the Adelaide-India bridge?
